BRECKENRIDGE NEWS.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 30, 1893.

Democracy of Breckenridge! Are you going to let your standard bearers go down in defeat next Saturday? He's your countryman, let's you remember, he's your neighbor. Stand by him like men.

BRANDENBURG.

Hon. Jim Montgomery, of Elizabethtown, was here last Thursday.

No new cases of fever and those who have been sick are all convalescent.

Mrs. Bob Smith, of Wolf Creek, is with her daughter, Mrs. R. H. Nevill, for a visit.

Mrs. A. C. Lewis and children spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. James W. Lewis.

Miss Emma Dee McGeehe is visiting Miss Nellie and Nora Henderson, near Irvington.

Judge C. C. Fairleigh and wife are in Elizabethtown to see their daughter, Mrs. John Rayley.

Will Washington was here last Sunday. He has been to Mexico and is now from the West's Fair.

Hugh Ditto, Owensboro, has had a pleasant stay at home and enjoyed himself with old friends.

Mrs. Julia Ditto has returned to her home, Toledo, Ohio, by the way of Chicago to take in the Fair.

Mrs. B. H. Brasher and Miss Pearl Wimp have been taking in the World's Fair for the past ten days.

John Powell, our popular compositor, was at home for a week, but has returned to his duties on the Breckenridge News.

Tom Fairleigh, much improved in health, has returned to his business in Putch, where he is making for himself a name.

Next Monday the schools will open. Pleasant parties took place and we will arise from our lethargy induced by a torrid summer.

Mr. C. G. Moreman went to Shawneetown, Ill., last Thursday to attend the fair, at which his son, Bert, will be in the bicycle race.

Mostly carnal yokes are most unproductive, but the least and least the best way to adjust them. A hint to the wife is sufficient.

I am glad to chronicle the fact that Mrs. C. G. Gaperke is gradually improving.

Mr. J. H. Pusey, Jr., Pusey, proposes her very much better.

The ice cream supper given by the ladies of the Methodist church was, as all their undertakings are, a most delightful one. The two suppers have netted one hundred dollars.

Miss Emma Gordon left for her home in New Albany, Ind., last Wednesday. Miss Blanche Fontaine gave a most delightful "Aid" on Tuesday night in honor of her guest, Miss Gordon, and of the young ladies visiting here.

Tom and Dee Pusey and Miss Bertie and Ella Richardson bade farewell to their many companions and friends last Saturday. Tom holds a responsible position in Chicago with the Phoenix Insurance Co., while Dee is clerk for the P. A. & W. Ry., at Akron, O.

Henry Mallin and Chas. Nevill will go to Main College, Rob. James Kentucky Training school; Miss Agnes Wentland to Bethlehem or St. Benedict, and Miss Daisy McIntire to Russellville. Miss Mary Pusey has not yet decided her destination for the school term.

Miss Eva and Maude Herndon entertained a few young people at tea last Friday evening. Those present were: Misses Nellie Lewis, Nellie McGeehe, Mary Pusey, Ella Haynes, Ella Richardson, Mary Murrill, Verae, Tom and Dee Pusey, Stuart Young, Will Howard, Percy Young and Will Grinnell. About nine o'clock they agreeably surprised Mrs. Grinnell by their presence and spent the remainder of the evening in merriment and fun.

E. H. Morrison's death came as a shock to us, although we knew of his critical illness. He was much beloved by the members of the Methodist church as far as those of other denominations are concerned. His influence for good was felt and acknowledged by all classes, and his loss is a great loss to the Louisville Conference and an irreparable one to his wife and children, who have the sincerest sympathy of their many friends here.

Mrs. Vesting has severed his connection with the Soda Ash Plant and left for his former home. Mr. and Mrs. Gough took his two little motherless boys about six months ago and have given them a father's and mother's love and attention every day. To take the little ones from them was a heartache, indeed, but to submit to the inevitable as graciously as possible was the only resource. This my good friends have done, but it cost them many a pang.

I am truly glad the Senatorial race is drawing to a close. In any political race there are always so many candidates, so many as those of other denominations, connected with the candidates that these reports can not be given as absolute facts or authentic; at the same time, they are so widely distributed, that even as a play that an officer of such dignity as a Senator and that gentleman running for such an office should be

NOTICE.
Breckenridge Public School, District No. 25 will open for the reception of pupils Monday, September 1st.

TERMS.
Common School Course Free.
Academic Course per month - $1.25

Many disadvantages to pupils result from a late entrance and irregular attendance, therefore it is earnestly desired that all pupils be present at the opening school and regular in attendance.

A daily record of each pupil's attendance, scholarship and deportment will be made and a copy sent to parent or guardian at the close of each month. This report is designed to serve as a medium of communication between parent and teacher and to promote harmony of effort in all that pertains to school work.

Without excuse to the pride and ambition of the pupils, stimulates to a greater zeal and diligence than could otherwise be obtained and together with enthusiasm on the part of the teacher has led almost all cases to honest and faithful efforts and satisfactory results. Systematic and constant effort will be made to interest pupils, and to stimulate them to a thorough and diligent exercise of their intellectual and moral faculties. The cooperation of every parent is earnestly solicited.

By A. B. DAVIS, Principal.

Now is the time of the year to work the road.

Quite a crowd attended the picnic at Guiton Friday.

Miss Flaherty, of Meade county, and Miss Jolly, of Louisville, are spending a few days with Miss Celestia Bland.

Miss Katie Board, of Garfield, is with Miss Leah Payne for a week.

Several persons from here attended all-day meeting at Rosetta Sunday.

Mayon Taylor and Jake Williams passed through here Saturday to attend the speaking at Webster.

Miss Ida Schumate left Saturday to spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. Weather at Falls of Rough.

Thurrah for Minor—A good man, but there are two other men along with him that want to be as well as he, and I don't think it makes much difference to us who gets it. But it does make great difference when you get your goods there last time. I am now working up with clean goods all around. Putting in some goods that I haven't been carrying for while, notably a nice little lot of clothing, men's, youth's and boys' suits suitable for holiday or every-day wear. Nice suits and good for $5.00 to $7.00, usually sold at $3.00 and $4.00. Don't take your word for it, but come and see. Large stock of some of the best shoes

The Curse of Intoxicant Drink.

Why civilized society or a community has civilized itself in the name of religion and demoralizing war traffic is beyond comprehension. Who is he that denies or does not positively know that the open saloon is the expansion of the evils of which hell itself is a heir?

These sinks of iniquity are opened wide in the name of liberty. Liberty for what? In exchange for a liberty for which the State endures one citizen with the right to support his family upon the misfortunes and life blood of other families.

That men with uncontrollable appetites and passions may in the name of personal rights, indulge all the desires which fit him for the commission of every crime, is the only logic of the saloon. Why should our nation bear even the name of a Christian civilization? There is no half-civilized or barbarous country on the face of the earth which is dominated and ruled by a greater curse than the saloon. The United States, by the rum power. Our Republic in its social and economic life is gradually and surely being undermined by this institution for man's best enemy, and the truth of the statement is being verified by the logic of passing results.

The moral sentiment of a depraved social condition might be indulged to satisfy the appetites of a few big game who persist in making holes of themselves, did the awful results of these acts reveal wholly upon their own heads, but this is not so. The man by the exercise of the license, which he calls, thinks he is having pleasure and a good time, but it is all at the expense of the punishment which he inflicts upon women and innocent children, who must bear the pain as a penalty of his sin.

As the greater sinners, as a result of this horrible rum demon, who are not so much affected by the right of the ballot? In justice to her and her children, it is longer that every just-loving man should strive to put an end to this traffic.

Woman can only be liberated by the labor and sacrifice of men. By the exercise of it she will be in the position to cure her other half, man, from some of his contemptible bad habits, which he says by his salacious nature, he is too weak to resist.

May God save us from a more cannibalism than that inflicted by the natives in the land of Africa! The moral degradation and crime breeding influence of the traffic is without measure, but it is enough to sink a nation into the depths of oblivion. Nor can the national wealth and financial loss be the only reason for its abolition. A nation has been made for the town of Harlanburg with five saloons and two pool tables, sufficiently correct to show that from the country enough money is wasted in these places of sin every year to pay the cost of a home for many a poor woman and suffering child who are now without a home of their own. There must be added again to work to the people of the enforcement of this, for no taxpayer escapes the expense of punishing the criminals, bred by this traffic, and the cost of crime. Yet the people shut their eyes to these canals of perdition, while their sons are being drawn into the vortex by the thousand pitfalls which might be forever closed within a year if the people but say the word.

Who is without guilt for the toleration of crime which involves a question of more importance than any other of modern times?

MCDANIELS.

Mr. Horace Hunter is quite sick. Miss Nell Hunter has returned from Harrell.

Mr. Bob Parson and John Mercer have returned from Louisville.

Mr. Sam Hensinger and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Will Dickey, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fraze and Miss Della and Ned Hunter died at Mr. Fraze's the third Sunday.

What was it? At first we thought it was a wash pan that looked like a chip but it was a drummers head and all the men were trying to get it.

School opened last Monday with twenty six pupils enrolled. From what we can learn we think our people made a wise choice. It is said that there is not a better educator in the county than Mr. De Cock.

Rev. E. N. Metcalfe wife and lady went to Alexandria's Chapel Friday and remained until Monday. While gone they attended the meeting at Constantine conducted by Bros. Chas. Royter and James Galloway.

The most quiet and enjoyable dance of the season was given by Messrs. J. T. Coombs and J. T. McDonald on the evening of the 21st at the pleasant country home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rhodes. The music was excellent and all enjoyed a delightful evening.

Your correspondent, accompanied by Rev. E. N. Metcalfe, took a trip through this and Harrell county this week. We stopped at Harrell Springs and remained one day at the home of Mr. John Walker. We were invited to call the place "Walkerland." For the mill, store and hotel with its level lawn and beautiful view of the river, Harrell is flourishing under the management of Mr. Walker and his daughter. Next we stopped at my brother's place a four mile tramp in the saltwater creek. We returned by Constantine and remained one night and dined with Mrs. Metcalfe. We found crops in our county much better than those in Harrell county. The corn and wheat are in the hands of the old farmer's creek. Corn there is very good.

Lots of game this year—see our assortment of game—S. L. S.

What was it? At first we thought it was a wash pan that looked like a chip but it was a drummers head and all the men were trying to get it.

School opened last Monday with twenty six pupils enrolled. From what we can learn we think our people made a wise choice. It is said that there is not a better educator in the county than Mr. De Cock.

Rev. E. N. Metcalfe wife and lady went to Alexandria's Chapel Friday and remained until Monday. While gone they attended the meeting at Constantine conducted by Bros. Chas. Royter and James Galloway.

The most quiet and enjoyable dance of the season was given by Messrs. J. T. Coombs and J. T. McDonald on the evening of the 21st at the pleasant country home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rhodes. The music was excellent and all enjoyed a delightful evening.

Your correspondent, accompanied by Rev. E. N. Metcalfe, took a trip through this and Harrell county this week. We stopped at Harrell Springs and remained one day at the home of Mr. John Walker. We were invited to call the place "Walkerland." For the mill, store and hotel with its level lawn and beautiful view of the river, Harrell is flourishing under the management of Mr. Walker and his daughter. Next we stopped at my brother's place a four mile tramp in the saltwater creek. We returned by Constantine and remained one night and dined with Mrs. Metcalfe. We found crops in our county much better than those in Harrell county. The corn and wheat are in the hands of the old farmer's creek. Corn there is very good.

Lots of game this year—see our assortment of game—S. L. S.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE HOUSE OF THE FUTURE.

And Our Descendants Will Enjoy Great Advantages in 1993.

MRS. LEASE SEES A BRIGHT FUTURE.

Democrat of Breckenridge? We appeal to you to stand by Groves. Let's send him out of his home county with a THUNDERING MAJORITY.

Mr. Bob Parson and John Mercer have returned from Louisville.

Mr. Sam Hensinger and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Will Dickey, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fraze and Miss Della and Ned Hunter died at Mr. Fraze's the third Sunday.

What was it? At first we thought it was a wash pan that looked like a chip but it was a drummers head and all the men were trying to get it.

School opened last Monday with twenty six pupils enrolled. From what we can learn we think our people made a wise choice. It is said that there is not a better educator in the county than Mr. De Cock.
